JobTread Surpasses 10,000 Customers Highlighting Rapid Shift in Construction Industry

DALLAS, TX – February 2026 – JobTread announced today at the International Builders Show (IBS) that more than 10,000 construction companies now run their businesses on its platform, marking a major milestone just five years after launching at IBS 2021.

The achievement underscores JobTread's rapid rise in a market long dominated by spreadsheets and legacy software. Growth has come not only from contractors modernizing for the first time, but also from companies actively migrating away from competing systems in search of a stronger user experience, lower price point, and the ability to easily integrate with other software.

"Reaching 10,000 customers is an incredible achievement, but what matters even more is why these businesses chose JobTread and the success they are having," said Eric Fortenberry, Founder and CEO of JobTread. "Contractors are leaving legacy systems that are expensive and hard to use. They want a platform their teams will actually adopt, pricing that supports growth, and integrations that eliminate double entry."

The company's growth has been fueled by a strong emphasis on customer success, continual product upgrades, and a robust, dedicated user community. JobTread continues to invest heavily in education, including its annual conference, JobTread Connect held every January.

The platform's rapid rise reflects increasing pressure on contractors to operate with tighter margins and greater accountability. Many companies are choosing to consolidate systems and replace outdated tools rather than continue managing projects through disconnected software.

"We are not just adding users," Fortenberry added. "We are replacing inefficiency. Contractors are making a deliberate decision to run their businesses with greater control."

Looking ahead, JobTread plans to continue listening to its customers and letting them help guide future product development. JobTread was recently recognized by Deloitte as the 6th fastest growing technology company in North America and named Best of IBS 2025.
